

My Life As a Fill-in-the-Blank

Try to fill in the blanks as well as you can. You might list more than one idea in each section. You will spend some time with a partner sharing your answers and helping each other brainstorm ideas for any blanks you cannot fill-in at this point.

Passion: What lights fire in you?

Purpose: What will you do with your passion to create what impact?

Hobbies: What brings you light and joy?

Passion(s): My passion is to find hope & solutions and at least try to implement them with the vision to build a just, fair, equitable communities.

My Purpose is to help communities, from the rural parts, to primarily make them aware of sustainability, its necessity, and to better utilize the abundance of biomass resources (animal and household waste) available ,so that they are equipped with tools and solutions that are more cleaner and greener.

Hobbies: When I took a break after completing my bachelor studies, I fell in love with trees, forests, and nature as a whole. I started to study our local forests, trees, their influence in the development of different patterns in our communities, then started a tree plantation initiative. This is still something I do, I work in a garden very close to my university.

BE VISIONEERS

Along with nature, I do read, play table-tennis, and everyday look forward to completing my run.

- How do these areas relate to each other?
 - I believe passion, purpose and hobbies are intertwined as they are always somehow connected to the very essence to the WHY of things within us. The WHY is all these aspects always remains constant.
- Do you think people feel more joy if there is more overlap between these areas of life? Why or why not?
 - It is very common to have these areas overlap, and people do find joy in it, but often without realizing that they are connected.
- How can you aim to intertwine these ideas in your project?
 - I would like to have these incorporated in my project as I believe that if we do something that feels like a hobby, has a purpose or effect, and drives us to do more as passion does, then what more can I ask for?

I would only ask for more of the same feeling and work. 😊
